A man had two sons. The younger wanted to take his inheritance money and travel to a far away country. When he got there he soon wasted all his money on careless living. When his money ran out and a famine struck the land, he felt he had no choice but to look for work. A man in that country gave him the job of looking after his pigs. Hungry and miserable every day, he at last came to his senses. "I've sinned against heaven and my father. I'll go home and become like one of my father's servants," he thought. As he approached home his father saw him in the distance, ran to where he was, and gave him a big hug. The father ordered his servants to give his son the best robe, a ring on his hand and shoes on his feet. They had a big feast that evening to celebrate the return of the father's son. This story reminds us of God's love for us and of His readiness to forgive the wrong things that we have done against Him.
